Aged Chicagoan Takes New

BID FOR FREEDOM NOT YET FAILURE

Insull May Get To Rumania
And Find Safety, Is One Conjecture

(International News Service)
ATHENS, Mar. 17.—Still stubbornly refusing to bend his neck to the yoke of authority, Samuel Insull, once head of a vast public utilities empire, went on a hunger strike today aboard the steamship Malotis, according to reports received here.

The captain of the Malotis, which is bearing Insull back to Greece after his abortive attempt at flight, was reported to have resorted to injections of nourishment to keep the aged former Chicagoan from becoming utterly exhausted.

Returning To Port.
The Malotis, her skipper wireless today, is steaming slowly toward Greek waters, fighting strong headwinds which cut down her speed. She is expected to arrive at Piraeus, the port of Athens, about 6:30 o'clock tonight.

Insull's refusal to partake of food was understood to be due to resentment at the guard placed over him to prevent him committing suicide. Ever since the 74-year-old exile began his fight to escape return to the United States where he is under indictment for alleged violation of the federal bankruptcy laws, authorities have been apprehensive he would end his own life.

As Insull slowly neared Greek shores, it was announced that his bold bid for freedom had not entirely failed.

Foreign Minister Maximos stated officially that Insull would not be removed from the Malotis or detained by Greek authorities. Instead, as soon as he has been definitely identified, he will be ordered to leave Greek waters within 24 hours, using the same travel permit and aboard the same boat upon which he fled last Wednesday, from under the very noses of a police guard.

To Identify Insull.
The announcement by the foreign minister followed a special meeting of Greek officials held at the residence of Premier Panyoti Tsaldaris. The minister of the interior, the

PA NEW OBSERVES
This is St. Patrick's day.
What happened to the bell on the court house clock Friday night? Young Pa New counted 18 strokes at 10:00 o'clock. An hour later, 13 sounds were heard and at 12 o'clock, the bell rang 14 times. Quite a variation, isn't it?

There is a sign at the west end of the West Washington street bridge that reads "Bridge Repairs 500 Feet Ahead." That was true enough, a number of months ago, but now it might as well be taken down or motorists will begin not to believe in signs.

But there are some good signs in the city, notably the large one standing at the old resting place of the Martin Gantz school building. Pa New stopped there yesterday and here is what he read: "This was the site of the Martin Gantz school. It provided work for 42 men for 13 days at less than the estimated cost of $6,300. ## Stavisky Accomplice In Suicide Attempt

(International News Service)
PARIS, Mar. 17.—Emile Blanchard, official of the ministry of agriculture, who was an accomplice of the late Alexander Stavisky, master swindler, attempted suicide today in Fontainebleau forest, sensationally adding one more act to the dramatic $40,000,000 Bayonne pawnshop scandal.

Blanchard was director of agricultural services of the department of Seine-et-Oise. On Thursday he was ousted by the ministry of agriculture because he had violated government rules by being a director of two of Stavisky's fraudulent companies, one of which dealt with agricultural machinery.

It was believed he tried to kill himself in fear of being further implicated in the workings of the involved Stavisky organization.

Testimony Cut Short By Senator, Who Asserts
"Attack On President"

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 17.—A sensational drama was enacted today at the Senate post office committee's hearings on the Black-McKellar air mail bill when Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, famous wartime flying ace, called upon President Roosevelt to "purge his official family of traitorous elements that advised him wrongly on cancellation of the air mail contracts."

Rickenbacker's dramatic statement was made at the close of testimony, in which he assailed the cancellation of the contracts and urged they be restored to the air carriers.

The tall, athletic flyer, now vice president of North American Aviation, Inc., rose to his feet and spoke with his voice trembling with emotion.

Denounces Traitorous Elements
"I think I have earned my heritage to American citizenship," he began, and then launched into a denunciation of "traitorous elements."

His statement was cut short by Senator McKellar (D) of Tennessee, the committee chairman, who accused him of "making an attack on the President."

JURY FAILS TO ASK FOR MERCY

Conviction Is Second Verdict In Trials For Sheriff's Murder

(BULLETIN)
By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent
LIMA, O., Mar. 17.—Charles Makley, smart-cracking Dillinger gangster, today was found guilty of the first degree murder of Sheriff Jess L. Barber.

The jury, comprised of 11 men and one woman, failed to recommend mercy, making sentence of death in the electric chair mandatory.

Conviction of Makley, a native of St. Mary's O., was the second to be returned by an Allen county jury in the death of Barber who was fatally shot and clubbed last October 12 when a gang of Dillinger henchmen raided the county jail here and freed their leader.

Second Conviction
Just a week ago, Harry Pierpont, another Dillinger gangster, was found guilty without a recommendation of mercy of the sheriff's slaying. Pierpont now is awaiting sentence. A third member of the Dillinger gang, Russell Clark, is scheduled to go to trial on Monday for the same crime.

The verdict of the jury in Makley's trial today was reached at 10 o'clock after an hour's deliberation this morning. Last night the jury deliberated for two and one-half hours without reaching a decision.

Announcement of the jury's verdict this morning was delayed until the prisoner could be brought to the court to hear his fate.

Business Better Pennsy Recalls Additional Men

Increasing freight business on the Erie and Ashtabula division of the Pennsylvania railroad today was directly responsible for the new summons to duty which the road issued to a group of its furloughed trainmen and engineers.

At the same time that Superintendent C. W. Van Nort's office announced that the employees were being recalled, an encouraging report on the division's business for February was made public.

The E. and A.'s gross ton miles for freight traffic in February increased 10 per cent over January of this year and 36 per cent over February of 1933, the report said. For the first 15 days of March the mileage has shown a 30 per cent increase over the first 15 days of February.

The division office pointed out that it was the business increase that is causing more men to be recalled these days.

HUNT FOR DILLINGER ON CANADIAN BORDER

(BULLETIN)
DETROIT, Mar. 17.—The intense and widespread manhunt for John Dillinger, escaped "wooden gun" desperado, continued on both sides of the Michigan-Canadian border today.

The hunt was spurred with the death of under-Sheriff Charles A. Cavanaugh, of Port Huron, who died last night of wounds suffered in yesterday's gun battle with Herbert Youngblood, negro pal of Dillinger. Youngblood was fatally wounded after he shot down three officers and a by-stander.

No trace of the fugitive desperado had been found today, although state police combed southern Michigan. Youngblood, before he died yesterday, told officers Dillinger had been in the section of Michigan for three days, and in Port Huron Thursday night.

It was feared that Dillinger may have escaped across the border into Canada.

The condition of Deputy Howard Lohr, who was shot in the stomach by Youngblood, remained critical. It was from a similar wound that Cavanaugh died.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Mar. 17. Mr. Insull was trying to get out of Greece on boat, and Greece caught him with their navy. Well I don't know whether we really want the old fellow as bad as we let on. I can't imagine any punishment worse than not being able to return to your own country, no matter what country it is.

Monday, the House of Representatives votes on the silver question. I wonder what effect it would have made on present day affairs if Bryan had had his in '96. I reckon we would have been just as broke.

You can't legislate intelligence and common sense into people. We was riding for the fall, would have gotten it anyhow.

VERDICT RETURNED

Deliberations By Jury Continued For 17 Hours
Before Agreement

John Mozesz will spend the rest of his natural life in the penitentiary for the murder of Rose Balogh. After over 17 hours of deliberation, discussion and at times acrimonious debate, the jury of nine men and three women arrived at a verdict at 9:09 this morning which will confine the young Hungarian in the Western penitentiary at Pittsburgh for life.

The formal verdict was "guilty of murder in the first degree, with life imprisonment."

As he stood before the jury in county court with upraised hand, listening to Foreman Samuel Gibson read the verdict, Mozesz was as impassive as the Sphinx. Not the slightest trace of expression flitted across his face, not the slightest tremor shook his hand. His control of his emotions was perfect.

"Saved My Life."
Once outside the courtroom in the custody of Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard and Warden Connie Wardman, Mozesz relaxed and a broad smile lit up his face. "I got my life," said he, indicating that he had been fearful of the electric chair. As he walked down the corridor towards the jail he was almost jubilant and insisted on talking in a loud voice punctuated with laughs.

"We are satisfied with the verdict," said John Balogh, brother of the girl John Mozesz killed. Previously he had said "we do not want an electric chair verdict. Such punishment is swift and final. A life verdict will be a constant punishment for the murder of my sister."

Only Member Of Family Of

Son 13 Years Old

(International News Service)
CAMDEN, N. J., Mar. 17.—To excessive drinking and brooding over joblessness police today attributed the sudden craze which drove Robley M. Wood, 44, to kill his oldest son, his wife and himself.

Wood, an unemployed salesman, came home intoxicated last night, investigating authorities said. He staggered upstairs and his son, Wilbur, 22, followed to remonstrate with him. Taking two revolvers from a trunk case, the father pumped three bullets into the body of his first-born.

Young Son Escapes
Hearing the shots, Wood's wife, Catharine, 42, started running up the stairs followed by another son, Merrill, 13. The crazed man peered over the banister and blazed away with both guns. Struck by four bullets in the chest, his wife fell.

Arthur Mometer

I'd like to flirt with the little girl I'd like to smile as I pass, but I'm never sure just what she means, for she's that kind of a lass. She smiles a bit but back of the smile there's a frown that will turn you chilly, and I don't want to get caught like that and made to be feeling silly. So I am strange just a little bit and formal as I pass by, for I don't want to get caught by her. I'm wary of her am I, for she is coy and she's full of guile, a winsome bit of a thing, but just for a while I don't expect to flirt with the lady who's known as Spring. For just when I warm to her winning smile, she's liable to turn on me, so I'm hard to get for the time at least, the weather is sixty three.

Opposition also was expected from the House rules committee, which is charged with the duty of making up the House program.

Feeling was running high among members of the "silver bloc." They directed their fire chiefly at Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, some of the other Democratic leaders indicated they would take up the administration battle.

JURY MAKES REPORT ON RAIL WRECK

Wreck Probe Is Concluded

Coroner's Jury Believes Engineer Was Dead Or Ill At Throttle

ELEVEN DEATHS HELD ACCIDENTAL

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Mar. 17.—Death or, at least, illness of a crack Pennsylvania passenger train through the cold of a freezing winter's night when it crashed on Pittsburgh's north side taking a toll of 11 lives and injuring approximately two score persons recently.

A coroner's jury, investigating the disaster, decided the wreck was caused by W. M. Shaw, New Castle engineer whose life was taken, being either dead or ill at the throttle when the train hit a curve near the wreck scene at high speed.

The jury held the 11 deaths were accidental. It also recommended that "all agencies with jurisdiction expedite the development and installation of safety equipment that would prevent a recurrence of accidents of this nature."

Recommended Safety Moves It was expected a recommendation for installation of this equipment would be made by the jury to the interstate commerce commission which has authority over such matters.

relating Morgenthau on the ground he went beyond his bounds in opposing silver purchases at this time. A resolution of Representative Martin (D) of Colorado, demanding Morgenthau be called before the House coinage committee to disclose the names of speculators in silver was pending. While absolving Morgenthau of any intention to reflect on Congress, Martin asserted his statement did cast reflections.

"We will vote on both bills on Monday," said Speaker Rainey, adding he had not received any personal protest from Morgenthau.

"I think we will get the two-thirds vote necessary to pass the Dies bill under suspension of the rules," said Representative White (D) of Idaho, member of the "silver bloc."

The Dies bill provides for exchange of American farm products for silver, which would in turn be used as a basis for paper money.

An agricultural surplus exchange board would be created to exchange products for silver. The board could accept silver at not more than 25 per cent above the world price.

Tangelo is the name given to the fruits obtained from hybrids between the tangerine and pomelo.

THE BATTLE WITHIN
Always, within you, something is being torn down, something is building up. A part of you is born, a part dies. You starve and you feast. You rest and you battle. You rise and you fall.

You are not consciously aware that this is happening among the almost countless cells of your body. You are a going concern, but fortunately perhaps you are not its directing manager. It is true that you furnish the food, you decide on how you will abuse or help your body, but you do not control all the details of the marvelous metabolism and katabolism of your physical self. You may exist within and through your flesh, but you are not its complete master. It acts despite your command, despite your prohibition.

Anytime within your spirit something is rising, something is falling. Something lives and something dies. A battle goes on continuously between faith and despair, optimism and pessimism, between trust in mankind and bitter disbelief. A part of you says, Yes. Another part says No. One says Doubt. Another counsels. Believe. Weariness says Stop here. Courage says Go on. Cynicism warns you to beware. A noble quality urges you to follow your dream whatever may betide.

Every instant, every hour, the battle is waged. The tide of fortune swings, the struggle of your own nature continues, and day after day you live through the curious fascinating experience of creating your essential everlasting character. The experiment is never finished. At no time in any man's life may he stop and look at himself and cast up what he is and what he is not and say "Here I am. This is I and that I was meant to be. Until the end of time and beyond, I shall be fixed as I am at this instant." He may strike a trial balance of himself, but never more than that. And in this is a check both to his despair and to his arrogance. A man is a growing thing, a man is an ending phenomenon, a man is an endless encounter with experience. A man is always On His Way and never at his Final Goal. Who would wish him otherwise?

Sun sets tonight, 5:08; sun rises tomorrow, 6:09.

Loaded to the horns with mash dumped during a raid on a house at Uniontown, Pa., Mrs. Joe Valeroga, 48, was chased by a drunken bull, barely escaping with her life. Probably the puffed bull imagined it had all the rights of a soused husband.

ACQUAINTANCES OR FRIENDS?
People laugh at you when frequently you allude to unusually prominent persons as being friends of yours.

How many really influential friends have you, anyway?

Not many, when you stop to consider this question—perhaps not any.

Certainly, you may know many persons who have achieved more than the ordinary run—but how can you classify them as friends of yours?

Merely acquaintances, and many of them could not recall your name if they met you again.

Persons far above you in the social, business and financial worlds have acquired friends, among those with whom they associate, because of their similar business positions or financial standing.

Usually they have all the friends they desire among the people they consider as of their own class.

They have no desire to acquire new friends outside their class and circle.

It is not always the result of a form of snobishness. It is a condition.

It is natural for persons to wish to associate with those on a par, at least, with themselves.

LIFE'S CHANGES
Oh, times were black or blacker in the years that lie behind us. Yet with our bit of courage and our faith we lived them through.

We've known where'er we wandered that some day new care would find us.

And surely with each morning there'd be other tasks to do.

We've had our stretch of summer and we've seen the winter follow.

And with April just as surely we have seen the winter go.

For many years together we have journeyed hill and hollow.

How transitory pleasure is by now we surely know.

Some joy shall follow after every time of stress and trial.

Some touch of grief shall hurt us as we travel farther on.

Face life with faith and courage and this stands beyond denial. There's never any pleasure we can fix our grasp upon.

"SPRUCE UP" FOR EASTER

FROM time immemorial it has been customary for both the female and the male of the human species to attire themselves in gay raiment for the Easter Sunday. New gowns, coats, hats and shoes for the women, new suits, topcoats, hats and shoes for the man annually make their appearance in the Easter morning parade.

The "sprucing up" has been less prevalent during the past few years, it is admitted, but depression dullness seems no good reason why there should not be a general return to the custom this year. After all, the business outlook hereabouts is considerably brighter, money is jingling in more pockets, the retail trade charts indicate that shopping has gotten back again into the brisk stages.

And while there is no advocacy here of allowing depression-accumulated debts to pile up any longer, it is a good thing to "dress up" a bit at the Easter-tide, to throw off winter-time dullness and especially in 1934 to celebrate what appears a general trend toward better business and decreased unemployment, to loosen up pursestrings and buy new and needed merchandise.

SPEEDING UP JUSTICE

Speedier justice is needed if the United States is to deal adequately with its crime problem. This is recognized in all well informed discussion of conditions.

How it is to be obtained is not so simple matter. Many proposals have been made, and in a few instances experiments have been undertaken. The question, though, remains largely unanswered.

The situation is one common to all states. This gives wide interest to the present effort of New York state to find a solution. Declaring in a special message to the legislature that "delay in the administration of justice becomes a denial of justice," the governor has submitted a program designed to speed up this. In the preparation of it he had the assistance of the presiding judges of appellate divisions. Included among his proposals is a statute to authorize temporary referees to hear and decide non-jury cases in the supreme court. This would permit the judges to devote all of their time to hearing jury cases.

Another proposal has to do with automobile negligence cases, and was taken from Massachusetts where it has been tried successfully. It permits referees to hear, but not determine, automobile negligence cases. This system not only speeds cases but results in a saving to the county a study of its operation in Massachusetts revealed.

It was found by the commission on the administration of justice that 58 per cent of the trials in New York are delayed a year or more from the time they originate.

Reforms that will prevent this, without injury to the litigants, need to be effected. Ways of doing this can be found. That states are becoming more interested in the matter is an encouraging sign.

CURBING BANK BANDITS

It may be that eventually the country will be forced to adopt a plan similar to that advocated by Representative Randolph as a means of curbing bank banditry. Congress Randolph would place a money value on the head of every bank robber. He proposes that a reward of $50,000 be paid for every bandit killed while trying to hold up a bank. Also he favors a reward of $25,000 for the arrest and conviction of any bank robber.

Such bandits, under his plan, would be worth more dead than alive. Fifty thousand dollars is quite a lot of money to many people, even in these days when millions are being handed out for this and that purpose by the federal government. There is little doubt that such a reward would stimulate the courage of any person witnessing a bank robbery.

But there would be a danger, too. Might it not give rise to a new form of crime a gruesome racket, by which innocent persons would be victimized into an apparent robbery attempt only to be shot dead by one of the racketeers? A case of this kind developed a few years ago in a state where there was a standing reward of $10,000 we believe, for the death of any bank bandit engaged in a robbery attempt.

The increasing number of bank robberies promises to make necessary the adoption of drastic measures to cope with it. This form of crime is well organized. So strongly armed are the gangsters who pursue it, and they travel in such numbers, that banks in smaller towns are almost at their mercy when they appear.

IS NOTHING IMPOSSIBLE?

An historic exception to one of the traditions of the federal government will be furnished by the department of the interior when it finally ceases to function, as Washington officials say it will within a few years. It has been a tradition of the bureaucracy at Washington that, once created, departments and bureaus never die. Rather, their history has been one of every striving for larger appropriations, more jobs for jobholders, more power, bigger buildings and more equipment.

The story of the department of the interior is different from the rest. It has seen its functions transferred, one by one, to other departments, principally the departments of agriculture and commerce. And now it nears the end of its job in administering the public lands and playing guardian to the Indian wards of the country.

The big job of the department was the disposal of the public lands. No other country in the world gave away or sold at nominal cost so much land. That task started with 1,835,000,000 acres to be administered. Only 182,000,000 acres remain.

This precedent-setting department was first proposed shortly after the Mexican War. Its fostering law was entitled, "An act to establish the home department," after the home office of the British government.

Administration Losing Ground
Does Not Desire To Use Force
Price Rise Presents Problem

By LESLIE EICHEL

Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17.—The Roosevelt administration has lost considerable ground the past few weeks—at least, in Washington. The St. Lawrence treaty defeat was an incident. It plays no part in the larger picture. The ground lost concerns labor. Industry, to a greater degree than realized, has refused to "dictate" to—and the administration refuses to resort to "force," at least, so far. There should be no mistake, the president has the power. President Roosevelt manifestly is eager to please all groups. He is anxious to avoid any odium of dictatorship. In the meantime, however, his sub-bosses, such as General Johnson of the NRA, merely exhort and denounce.

There is every indication that the president will remain conciliatory and "middle of the road." All his plans will collapse unless he can persuade industry to continue to look ahead, to develop, to provide more and more jobs. He could readily force corporations to comply with codes—but he could not force them to continue operations, unless the government took over industry "in the common good."

Radicals say the president will be forced to come to this. But the majority see no such action likely. There is more likelihood that the government will continue to edge its way into the banking business until it is furnishing commercial loans on little security.

PRICE RISE
Labor is forced to appeal for aid because of constantly advancing living costs.

The Roosevelt program—which is strongly nationalistic—succeeds only as jobs and wages rise to meet increased living costs.

The increase in living costs is supposed to accrue to the farmer. The increase in costs of industrial operations is supposed to be leveled off by smaller profits, smaller salaries for executives, elimination of unfair competition and squeezing the "water" out of capitalization.

ST. LAWRENCE TREATY
The president is determined that the St. Lawrence treaty, revised, shall come up for a vote again.

There will be changes satisfactory to Canada (but hardly the changes demanded by the senators from Illinois). Those changes will provide the "out" for the senators who refused to follow the president's wishes.

The president expressed impatience, though understanding, over the sectionalism displayed in the debate and the voting.

He will use the patronage whip the next time.

MEANS MUCH
The states of Illinois, Missouri and Louisiana will battle to the last ditch any expenditure on a St. Lawrence waterway.

Those states are gaining tremendously by the Lakes-to-Gulf waterway. Three large cities are deeply involved—Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans. And two more—in the east—Buffalo and New York.

A million bushels of grain ready to go down the Mississippi, New Orleans now.

Two years ago such grain destined for export, moved from Duluth along the Great Lakes to Buffalo, thence was transhipped on the New York State barge canal to New York.

Buffalo and New York stand to lose either way—Lakes-to-Gulf or St. Lawrence waterway.

But Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans don't intend to have any of their new glory dimmed by still another water outlet. That explains the terrific and victorious fight put up against the treaty by Senators J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri and Huey Long of Louisiana, all Democrats.

BILLY MITCHELL
President Roosevelt counts on fiery Brigadier General William Mitchell to save the airmail situation.

The general had an hour's conversation with the president over the luncheon table and came out with the broadest smile yet seen of a man departing from the White House since the airmail fight broke out. Later he began firing his big gun—much to the relief of the war department, which some years ago forced him out because he opposed bureaucracy.

The general charged that the airmail companies disseminated "malicious propaganda" to discredit the administration and confuse the issue with the people. The war department, which is forbidden to answer for itself, believes this wholeheartedly.

The general further charged that "much the same groups that have obtained our airmail contracts by collusion control the supply of aircraft and military equipment," and are "responsible for the poor equipment of our military flyers."

STOCK MARKET
Stock market regulation will go through. The president did not express enthusiasm for the original bill—and the stock market men thought they had it whipped.

They had organized so extensively that every senator was bombarded with letters of protest against passage of any bill.

Then Raymond Moley came from New York to pass a day and a night at the White House to go over proof of the president's new book—a compilation of his speeches.

When Moley departed the bill had been rewritten—but with more "teeth" in it than the original bill had.

Kidnaped from Scotland when 16 and sold in slavery to a Gaelic chieftain, he escaped Ireland when 22, went to Rome. Educated as a priest, he was sent back to Erin's Isle by Pope St. Celestine I, missionary, traveled through the land preceded by a booming drummer, won the chiefs and through them the people, instituted the Leap Year custom of proposals by the women, founded 365 churches and planted a school by each established two colleges, was blinded before he died.

Traditional is the story that St. Patrick made the shamrock the Irish national symbol by using this plant bearing three leaves upon one stem, in illustrating his preachments on the doctrine of the Trinity.

SUNDAY
History's Great Days—March 18, 1452—Most successful imposter of all time was born in Florence, Italy—one Amerigo Vespucci.

He faked a story of a voyage to a new land in the west so convincingly that it caused the new land to be named for him: America!

Vespucci wrote a letter about a voyage which he said he made in 1497 to the continent that lay across the Atlantic. It went to one Soderini, a former schoolfellow in Florence, through whom it fell into the hands of Martin Waldseemüller, German geographer. Waldseemüller used the legend in his "Introduction to Geography," published in 1507, suggested the new land be named for Amerigo. It was.

There is proof Vespucci was in Seville all the time he said he was on his voyage to the west, and there is no confirmation he made any of the other three voyages to the new world in which he claimed to have participated!

America actually derives its name from St. Emmer, pious son of pious St. Stephen, king of Hungary. Vespucci was named in honor of St. Emmer, which in Italian is Amerigo. (The Christian names Amerigo and Emery are derived from the same source.)

March 18, 1718—Lady Mary Montagu pioneered in the discovery of preventive against smallpox. On this date in Belgrade (where her husband was the British envoy) she caused her infant son to be inoculated with the virus of smallpox, a means of establishing immunity to an epidemic of the disease raging there.

Her brother had been carried off by the disease and she herself had been pockmarked. Her courageous test of the method with her own child paved the way for Jenner's researches and establishment of smallpox vaccination 75 years later.

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 17.—About 18 months ago a little New England girl, Katherine Hepburn, started a career in motion pictures.

Today she wears movieland's most coveted crown of 1933. The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences voted her performance in "Morning Glory" the best given by an actress during the year.

Miss Hepburn's flaming personality and her distinguished acting ability were lauded by 900 of Hollywood's elite assembled for the colorful sixth annual banquet of the Academy in the gray ballroom of the Ambassador Hotel.

The second highest honor for an actress' performance went to May Robson. The picture was "Lady For A Day." Miss Diana Wynyard's performance in "Cavalcade" won third prize.

Laughton Winner

Charles Laughton won the award for the best 1933 performance by an actor, in the picture, "The Private Life of King Henry VIII." Paul Muni's performance in "I Am A Fugitive From A Chain Gang," won second, with Leslie Howard in "Berkeley Square," third.

Fox's "Cavalcade" was voted the best picture of the year; Frank Lloyd, who directed it, the "best director."

Paramount's "A Farewell To Arms," won triple honors—the best photography, the best art direction and the best sound reproduction.

Miss Hepburn, "Queen of 1933," came to Hollywood as an unknown. She captured Hollywood quickly by sheer ability.

However eccentric this new star has been in her studio contracts, she has insisted on one thing—her married life is her own private affair. Her husband is Ludwig Ogden Smith with whom she spends at least three months a year in their eastern home. Miss Hepburn is in the east now.

A Letter

TO THOSE WHO EXPECT TO OWN A CAR, AS WELL AS THOSE WHO OWN THEM NOW!

Lawrence Automobile Co.
"The Oldest and Best Equipped Garage in the City"
Corner South Mercer and South Sts.
Bell Phones 4600-4601

NEW CASTLE, PA., March 17th, 1934.

DEAR FOLKS:

This is not so much about cars as about us. For believe it or not, everyone who buys or uses an automobile has a very personal interest in the qualifications of the dealer who sells that car.

Any car is only a car until you step on the starter—then it becomes automotive transportation. We sell cars. The new PONTIACS, BUICKS, CADILLACS and LASALLES are the greatest cars we have ever seen per dollar of cost. But selling these fine cars is really the smallest part of our business. Supplying automotive transportation to this community is the big job.

Those who buy cars from us find here every essential for the continued good and economical operation of their cars. When we sell a car to you or anybody else we regard ourselves as having assumed an obligation to see that you enjoy the use of it—that you get from it all the efficiency and dependability that the manufacturer built into it. And we have prepared ourselves adequately to attend to all the needs of that car as long as it is running.

Here is a real home and headquarters for the cars we sell. We save you money, time and trouble in the operation and maintenance of your car.

Come in when you can—drive one of the new PONTIAC, BUICK, CADILLAC or LASALLE models. And by all means see what we have done here to assure your constant satisfaction in ownership.

Sincerely,

LAWRENCE AUTOMOBILE CO.

CADILLAC—LASALLE—BUICK—PONTIAC

Aggravated Assault And Battery Charge

Dan McCormick On Trial At Court For Auto Accident On Perry Highway

The case of the commonwealth against Dan McCormick, charged with aggravated assault and battery, was on trial before Judge James A. Chambers in county court today. McCormick lives near Grant City on the Perry highway, and the prosecutrix, Margaret Yeager, lives in Pittsburgh.

The case grew out of an automobile accident on the Perry highway, south of Harlansburg. McCormick was about to turn off the highway and it is claimed by the prosecution came across the center of the road in order to make the turn, and sideswiped the Yeager car, which was coming in the opposite direction.

Plaintiff was injured and Wilbert Ahermer, occupant of the car, had his neck broken. He appeared in court with an apparatus fitted to his neck and chin to hold his neck in place. McCormick denied that he was responsible for the accident, claiming that the other car was coming at a high and dangerous rate of speed.

Former Resident Seriously Burned

The many New Castle friends of Mrs. Sara Waddington Tillman, a former resident now living in Cleveland, will regret to learn that she was seriously burned Thursday. Presumably standing before an open grate, her dress caught fire and before the flames could be extinguished, she was badly burned about the face and body. She was rushed to Lakeside hospital where she is doing as well as can be expected but owing to her advanced age, Mrs. Tillman being in her seventies, her recovery is doubtful. Mrs. Tillman lives with a daughter, Mrs. W. A. Waddington, of Cleveland, also a former resident, and Mrs. Jesse R. Cooper, of Englewood avenue is a niece.

Chicago White Sox Greatly Improved

Manager Lew Fonseca Has Hustling White Sox Team On Coast

Bonura Will Play First Base, Have Fine Pitching Staff

By JIM GALLAGHER
International News Service Sports Writer

PASADENA, Calif., Mar. 17.—Beware the White Sox!

For the first time since 1920 it looks as if Chicago's American Leaguers are going to emerge from the second division.

You don't hear pennant talk as the pale hose go through their daily chores here. But you do observe a very obvious confidence that the White Sox will be a dangerous ball club this year.

Have Confidence

This confidence is based on your factors:

1.—Acquisition from the Athletics of George Earnshaw's for years one of the League's great right-handers.

2.—Purchase of Zeke Bonura, a powerful young giant who played first base for Dallas in the Texas League last summer.

3.—The trades that brought catchers Mervyn Shea and Johnny Pask to Chicago.

4.—The promise shown by Lee Stine, Paul Gregory and Les Tietje, rookie pitchers, and Joe Chamberlain, youthful shortstop.

The White Sox who finished sixth in 1933 were a bad ball club. They suffered from the deficiencies, however.

Bonura At First

The first base problem seems to have been solved by Bonura. The New Orleans Italian is six feet tall and weighing 210 pounds. He looks like a wrestler and hits like Jimmy Fox. He's first, but he's surprisingly agile, knows how to handle his feet and has a great pair of hands.

Lew Fonseca feels confident his catching will be far better, he traded Grube to St. Louis for Mervyn Shea, a smart receiver and a good handler of pitchers.

Charles Berry dealt, while the Sox got young Johnny Pask, a hustler, a good receiver, who hits a ball hard.

Bank On Earnshaw

Earnshaw is one of the Sox's chief hopes. Out of shape all last season he reported to the Sox 20 pounds lighter than he was at any time in 1933. He's been a willing hustling worker in training camp and Sox players and officials alike are counting on him to win at least Ted Lyons, long one of the greatest pitchers in the League, and Ed Durham reports he's in shape once more.

Good Pitchers

Other veteran hurlers are Sam Jones, still a great spring and fall pitcher at 42 years, Joe Heving and Whit Wyatt.

Three rookies also show much promise. There's Les Tietje, who came up from Dallas at the close of last season and beat the Yankees and the Browns handily; Lee Stine, a 20 year old youngster and Paul Gregory, who was brilliant a year ago in the spring, but faded when the season started.

Another rookie who has made almost as good an impression as Bonura is Frenchy Unalt, a speedy outfielder from Oakland.

The Sox will line up with an outfield second to none in Al Simmons, Haas or Unalt and speedy Evar Swanson. Milt Bocek, a Chicago Youngster picked up from the University of Wisconsin last fall is the fifth outfielder.

The infield will have plenty of power, with Bonura, Luke Appling, Jimmy Dykes and Jackie Hayes.

OHIO STATE'S FATE DEPENDS ON RESERVES

(International News Service)
COLUMBUS, O., Mar. 17.—Prospects for a winning track team at Ohio State University during the 1934 season will depend not so much on newcomers from last year's freshman squad as on replacements from varsity reserves, according to the Buckeye coaching staff.

"In fact, with the exception of co-captains 'Whitey' Wonsowicz, star pole vaulter, from Gary Ind., and Bill Bloor, veteran quarterback and half-miler from Barnesboro, Pa., the squad is devoid of luminaries. You can't remove a Jack Keller and a Don Bennett from any track team without feeling the 20-point deficit," one coach pointed out.

"Jesse?" repeated the teacher.

"J. C.," Owens insisted.

"Jesse?" the instructor again inquired.

"Yes," the track man replied.

Star Milers To Battle Tonight

Will Seek To Uncrown Glenn Cunningham, Star Kansas Milers, Tonight

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Mar. 17.—Can a two mile champion beat a half mile champion at the latter's own game?

This interesting problem will be decided tonight in Madison Square Garden where the Knights of Columbus are staging their annual track and field games.

The two champions who are seeking new worlds to conquer are Chuck Hornbostel, the bespectacled hoosier who is king of the half milers, and Johnny Follows, the N. Y. A. C. star, whose specialty is running the last three laps of a two mile jaunt as if he were a quarter miler.

They will try to trim Glenn Cunningham, the Kansas mile title holder, over his pet route and while they are at it, they will also endeavor to show up Gene Venzke, the slim Pennsylvanian, whose 4:10 indoors still is the record mark for eight furlongs.

Track followers are divided in their opinions, some holding no champion, no matter how great, can beat another champion at his own game, while others contend Hornbostel and Follows are super athletes with enough stuff to trim even a Cunningham.

Some think Hornbostel with his greater speed has a better chance to turn the trick than Follows. Others believe that a man like Follows who can sprint three laps at the end of two miles will find the mile route just a breeze.

Market Continues To Move
In Listless Fashion As
Trading Slows Down

UTILITY SHARES SOMEWHAT FIRMER

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Mar. 17.—The stock market continued to move in listless fashion today as traders showed little disposition to commit themselves on either side pending clarification of the auto labor issue.

The commodity markets, though, displayed independent strength. Wheat, corn and the other grains continued their recovery with fractional gains today and cotton advanced about 5 cents a bale. Silver also staged a moderate recovery of about 35 points, although rubber moved lower.

Motor shares were quiet and somewhat lower as the trading element continued apprehensive over the labor troubles in the industry. Chrysler, General Motors and Auburn ruled fractionally lower in light trading. Auto accessory shares were quiet.

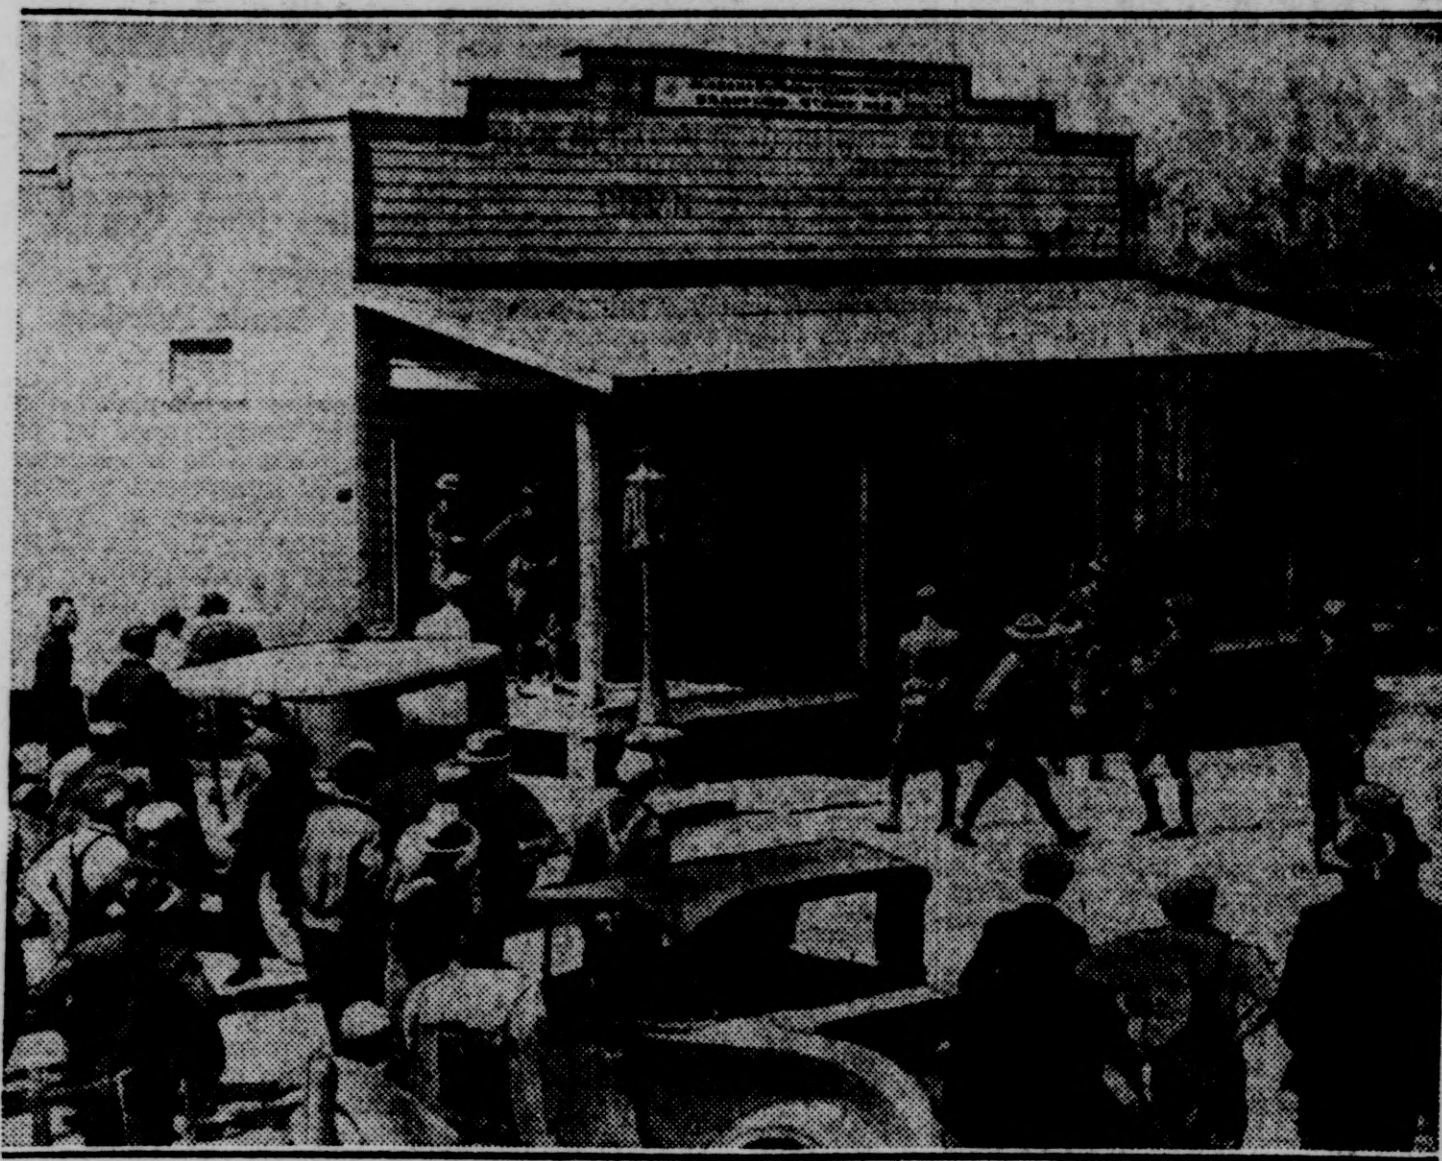

Building shares were quiet. Schenley continued to feature the liquor shares rising nearly a point on top of a similar advance yesterday.

New York Central again manifested easiness in the rail shares and dampened such speculative enthusiasm as prevailed over the group. The labor disputes in the Locomotive Roads also had an adverse effect on the group.

Utility shares were firm under the leadership of Columbia Gas and Consolidated Gas. Chemicals, oils and aviation were firm.

Scotland Yard For United States Is Proposed In Bill

By THOMAS F. CULLEN

International News Service Staff

Correspondent

NEW YORK, Mar. 17.—An "American Scotland Yard" became a definite possibility today when it became known that Sen. Royal S. Copeland, chairman of the U. S. senate committee on crime control, introduced a bill in the senate authorizing the establishment of such an organization.

The measure provides that the attorney general may allow agents of the department of justice to accept police powers from several states and thus permit the government man to hold both federal and state authority, thus giving these agents the right to handle any kind of law violation.

Meets Approval.

Proposed by Copeland months ago, this "American Scotland Yard" has met with the approval of governors of 29 states.

Copeland, who has been studying crime for the senate since last summer, found a real necessity for a super police agency that would have legal power to work anywhere in the nation and to handle any type of case.

The government agents are limited in their authority and can investigate only violations of federal laws. Copeland pointed out that if these men had police power in the various states they could act as state officers as well as for the United States government.

Legal difficulties preventing employees of the federal government from holding state offices have to be overcome in order to put into effect the all powerful detective bureau Copeland has in mind.

The bill introduced by him in the upper house of congress removes the obstacles and paves the way for the creation of the most potent police force the country has ever had.

On Court House Hill

Papers in an appeal to the supreme court have been prepared by Prothonotary R. M. Campbell in the case of Dr. Myer M. Frank against Julius Markley, the suit growing out of an automobile accident in which Dr. Frank was a guest in the Markley car. The accident happened on the New Castle-New Bedford road about 2:30 in the morning, as the two men were returning from Youngstown, O.

It is alleged that Markley, who was driving, fell asleep at the wheel, allowing the car to leave the road and strike a telephone pole. Dr. Frank was thrown forward against the windshield, and was quite severely injured. He brought suit for $31,321.70. At the trial of the case he lost out, the verdict being in favor of the defendant.

Application was made for a new trial and for judgment notwithstanding the verdict. Both were refused and Dr. Frank then took an appeal.

County commissioners complain that children and some grown people are destroying the court house lawn, by playing on it or tramping over it while it is soft. Considerable time and labor have been spent by Janitor Clifford James and Fireman E. C. McCracken in trying to put the lawn in first class condition, but the tracks which it will be almost impossible to iron them out with a roller. The commissioners point out that the lawn is not intended as a playground and request that parents assist in beautifying it by cautioning their children against playing on it while the frost is going out, or for that matter at any other time.

The Gas Electric Appliance company has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against Charles Cripps, to collect a balance of $435.66, allege to be due on a heating plant. It is understood that there is some dispute over the bill. Mr. Cripps will file his answer later.

Deputy Sheriff Elmer Taylor has had a busy time this week keeping back the crowds seeking access to court room number 1, where the trial of John Moez for the murder of Rose Balogh has been in progress. The court has directed that only those who can be seated in the court room be admitted. Daily throughout the week there have been anywhere from fifty to one hundred persons in the corridor, seeking to gain admittance. On several occasions Deputy Sheriff Taylor has stationed himself on the stairway leading up to the court room, to keep the crowd back. Some of those who have gained access to the court room have carried their lunches with them so that they would not lose their places by going out. Usually a few have left a recess or noon, making room for others. It is surprising the morbid interest which a murder trial arouses.

Is the political complexion of Lawrence county changing? This query is based on the returns of registering assessors in the country districts, which show that many persons who have been registered as Republicans have changed to Democrats. In one township, which formerly was overwhelmingly Republican, it is said that the party representation is now pretty equally divided. On the other hand there are practically no Democrats who are changing to Republicans. Whether there is any corresponding change of sentiment in the city of New Castle remains to be seen when the next personal registration is made. It is a well known fact, however, that many Republicans vote the Democratic ticket at the last presidential election. Whether they kicked over the traces just once in order to get a change, or have definitely decided to cast their lot with the Democrats, only future elections can determine.

County Controller R. C. McCaslin, who has been laid up for some time at his home in New Wilmington, is not yet able to be at his desk. During his absence the work has been in charge of Deputy County Controller Scott Kildoo.

The Misses Ruth and Jessie Heckathorn and Dan Weirick were callers at the former's cousin, Earl Swartz on Sunday evening and also called on their grandmother, Mrs. E. Gibson of New Wilmington.

Friday evening at 9 o'clock a fire of unknown origin burned the cabin of Russell Carlisle and Ralph Baird, which they had built in the woods of Carlisle. It was also a great loss to the boys in the community who held many happy gatherings during the summer at the cabin.

The Junior Missionary Society with their supervisor Mrs. Roy McBride were entertained at dinner Saturday at home of Hazel Kuhn. Fourteen were present. Mrs. Kuhn was assisted in serving by Mrs. Elmer Baird. In the afternoon the children made scrap books and dressed dolls for an exhibit. During their meeting officers were elected for the year: president, Jean Baird; vice-president, Hazel Kuhn; secretary, Marian Carlisle; treasurer, Anna May Munn.

CWA Money Boosted Many Incomes Here

Deputy Revenue Collector Says
It Played Part; Checks
Returns

Many a New Castle resident's income for 1933 was increased noticeably by the CWA money flow in the final quarter. It was observed today by Paul B. McCandless, deputy collector of internal revenue for the government, as he checked through returns today.

The deputy collector busied himself in checking the many returns that reached him at the post office during the rush filing period which began a week ago and ended at the deadline hour of 12 on Thursday night.

Mr. McCandless reported that figures for this year's filing must come from Collector of Internal Revenue David L. Lawrence, Pittsburgh, chief of the revenue work in the 23rd district. He added that no return figures are yet available here.

The deputy collector, however, asserted that CWA funds contributed noticeably to boosting incomes of local merchants and other businessmen whose establishments contacted the CWA money source. He announced that a greater number of returns were filed this year than a year ago and predicted that Uncle Sam's collections would be greater.

The deputy collector said few extensions were granted here for reasons recognized by the government's revenue department. Serious illness and like reasons are usually the basis for such extensions, he said.

Pioneer Church At Coitsville Burns

Two New Bedford Youths Discover Fire At One O'clock
In The Morning

The Coitsville Presbyterian church on the New Castle-Youngstown road, one of the oldest in Eastern Ohio, was burned to the ground yesterday, causing damage estimated at $11,500.

Ray Orr and Perry Root, who live near New Bedford, saw flames shooting from the building as they were returning home from Youngstown at 1 a. m. They awakened the minister, Rev. Gerrit La Botz, and the fire department was called, but it was too late to save the church. However the parsonage, located near, was saved.

The original church was built in 1836, 16 years after the first Presbyterian meetings were held in the township. The church was the oldest in Coitsville.

In 1869 the church was rebuilt, some of the timber from the old building being used in the new structure.

A short time ago the congregation built a new wing on the church at a cost of $3,000, to provide Sunday school rooms. Previously a vestibule had been built, costing about $1,000. T. Lamar Jackson said that plans had already been made for the church to celebrate its centennial two years from now.

Many of the oldest families of Coitsville have been active in the church. Investigation to-day showed that the fire had probably originated from the furnace, as there had been a meeting place in the church on Thursday evening.
